

1. Approach

Cobham Bowling Club respects the privacy of visitors and members. It collects data from you for various necessary operational reasons.

2. [Internet] Cookies

Cookies are small data files that websites write to your hard drive when you visit. Once written, the cookie can only be accessed by the site that originally created it. Our site uses cookies to store personal site preferences and session information specific to you.

3. Contact Details

We collect your contact information from our website “Contact Form” page when you complete the form, and from the links on the “Find & Call us & Club Contacts” page when you reach out to our club contacts. This information is used to enable us to respond to you. We will never provide or sell this information to third parties.

4. Membership

We collect your contact information from the registration form. We will never provide or sell this information to third parties.

This information can be used:

- To monitor who is accessing the membership section of our website.
- To understand the club’s membership demographics.
- To improve our website and services.
- To monitor our website performances, and
- To send you news, information about our activities and general promotional material.
- To send you (if appropriate) operational club information such as membership renewals and details of inter / intra club activities, e.g. team selection.
